Kenyan singer Chess Nthusi is releasing today the video of her latest single “Give it to you”.

The video will be premiered on Citizen TV and will be available on Chess’ new Vevo Channel (<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCIcDB3KbVKS0fozuO9jooWw>) from 10pm EAT.

“Give it to you” is an upbeat club banger performed in an afro-dancehall style in which Chess put herself in the shoes of a beautiful lady who goes out alone to a club for few drinks. She has no intentions of going with anyone but then she bumps into this very handsome young guy who has been giving her looks all night. Since he is her type and she is a confident open minded Lady, she approaches him and tell him what she wants. It’s a bold expression of passion from a beautiful lady. Chess wrote this song for all the bold and confident ladies who are not afraid of going after what they want.

This project is an all Kenyan affair with the audio produced by Dr. Sappy and the video been directed by Johnson Kyalo at a location in Nairobi.

Chess is a young beautiful versatile talented Kenyan singer, song writer and performer. Her music, which targets females between the ages of 18 and 30yrs, speaks of the female human experience.

This is Chess’ second single after the successful “I am in love”. In her discography she has also some high profile collaborations with Kenyan heavyweights such as “Hold you down” ft Khaligraph Jones, “Me and you” ft Shamir, “Haiwessmake” with Rabbit (now King Kaka) and “Celebration of Life” with Prezzo.

A new collaboration with Prezzo will be released soon and a new single is in the final stages of preparations.
